Those contributing to the program were: John Carlson, piano accompanist; Archie Fraser, violin; J. Anderson, violin; songs by E. W. McCulloch, W. Lewis, W. Smith, W. Holley, Sam Cooley; Archie Anderson. Refreshments were served and a most enjoyable evening was spent.

Romantic Crook Drama at Palace Monday - Tuesday

"Last of the Lone Wolf," by its title heralds the finale to that series of amazing action dramas with the suave but dynamic Bert Lytell that Columbia has given to the screen world. Unless, of course, the Lone Wolf should imitate Sherlock Holmes, and be reborn brilliantly. Certainly the interest of some millions of eager Lytell fans can not be disregarded.

Be that as it may, "Last of the Lone Wolf," which will be on view Monday and Tuesday at the Palace theatre, is said to be the peak of the Lone Wolf's exploits in the realm of intense action crook drama. A regal setting and a royal plot—the eternal triangle of a King, a Queen, an admirer—and a precious ring—are further calculated to whet the screen appetite.

Patsy Ruth Miller, Otto Matson and Lucian Prival are others of the cast which was directed by the distinguished Richard Boleslavsky.

It is not too early to order Christmas cards. By ordering before Nov. 30 a free order of illustrated embossed stationery will be given to purchasers 25 cards. See samples at the office or place order with Mrs. Grant, who has complete samples of many fine designs priced from $2.00 up. If you cannot come to the office, telephone 209 and a sample book will be sent to your home.

The waltz will be judged by capable persons and those who intend taking part should engage partners in advance. A splendid prize is selected and will be announced later. An attendance prize will be awarded by number on the patron's admission ticket.

Tickets will be on sale at Coleman hotel cafe at 50c each. A committee of ladies will also solicit the dancing public's generosity in the sale. Splendid music will be supplied by a well-known orchestra and dancing will continue from 9:30 till 1 a.m. The net proceeds will be donated to Holy Ghost R. C. church. Everyone is cordially invited.

They Take Notice!

A commercial traveller after picking up a copy of the issue of the Journal published on Nov. 6, meeting the editor, remarked on the live advertising it contained, featuring the merchandise of the retail stores.

A special effort was made to induce merchants to advertise for pay-day, and it serves to show that enterprise on the part of the merchant is noticed by the general public not only locally but from a distance.

Dulcie Richards, popular high school student, has experienced a severe heart attack during the week, causing considerable anxiety to her parents and friends.

Bring Home Superb Heads

The hunting season is in full swing in the Province of Quebec. In the middle of October a party of three Nimrod left the Gray Rocks Inn, St. Jovite, Que., and took a hydroplane trip into the north to investigate moose hunting prospects. They got a big surprise and one of the highlight moments of their careers as hunters of big game. One of the party bagged a moose with the magnificent spread of 66½ inches; another of them shot a 60½ inch head and the third also got a trophy which though smaller than either of the other two, would have ranked high in any average moose hunt. They report that the section is unusually well stocked with the big animals. The object of the party was to get quickly into the north to spy out the land and come back later for the real hunting with all its pleasurable hardships of portaging, camping out, canoeing one's way through unknown or almost unknown territory and ending up by pitting one's brains and experience against the instinct, sagacity and wariness of the moose. They have returned to tell us of a Mecca for hunters of moose in the North. Lay-out shows the great moose spread with hydroplane in background, and Tom Wheeler, proprietor of the Gray Rocks Inn, with guide.

Six Below Zero Brings Touch of Real Winter

Heavy Snow and Falling Temperature Curtailed Auto Traffic Throughout Province

Snow fell to the depth of over a foot throughout Southern Alberta on Wednesday, and during the night of Thursday temperature skidded downward. Trains maintained their schedule, but the Greyhound motor coaches were unable to continue. The coach from Cranbrook to Macleod was about an hour late going east on Thursday. The westbound due at 5:10 was reported to be stranded a few miles out of Macleod. No information was available as to the resumption of service.

From information obtained from Lance Morgan, president of Blairmore Board of Trade, the Highways department will inmediately put into service a snow plow and a grader to keep the road open to Crow's Nest. The H.C. highways department it is expected will keep open the highway west of the Divide, as there is a strong agitation for all year service on this section of the transcontinental highway.

What Does Your Work Mean To You?

In the current issue of a well known magazine there is an article, bearing the title "Do You Ever Get Off On the Wrong Foot?" which discusses the problems of people who at some stage in their career come to the conclusion that they are square pegs in round holes. In a word, that they do not fit; that they have made a mistake in the choice of their business, occupation or professional calling, and, as a result, are not making the progress they feel they should make and their abilities entitle them to make.

On the other hand, a daily newspaper is at present running a series of short sketches of men who in their boyhood or early manhood had ambitions along certain lines, but circumstances, environment, fate, call it what you will, decided otherwise, and instead of being what in those other days they "wanted to be," they have achieved success in radically different walks of life.

In this present period of world-wide depression, a temporary period when we are for the first time feeling and suffering the real aftermath of the Great War, doubtless many people are asking themselves the question: Have I got off on the wrong foot? Am I a square peg in a round hole? Should I make a change, abandon the business, trade of profession in which I am or have been engaged and try something new and different?

Possibly at this time farmers particularly may be inclined to indulge in such questioning as they contemplate the many vicissitudes which agriculture has undergone during the past two years as a result of climatic conditions, marketing difficulties, and a selling price for their products below the actual cost of production. The present outlook may not look promising to them, any more than it does to the city wage-earner. The question, however, which both classes must consider is whether, after all, any change would be better.

For example, if the man engaged in agriculture really likes farming and a rural life, and that degree of independence resulting from the fact that he is his own boss, preferring these to the limitations of a salaried position in town or city, the paid servant of others, and breathing the air of congested centres of population, then he has not made a mistake; he is not a misfit. Nor is the city man in the wrong place if on his part the open-air life and activities of the farm and the less strenuous life of rural communities makes no appeal to him.

Possibly in both city and country, and with men in all occupations and callings in-life, some part at least of their dissatisfaction with their own condition is to be found in their failure to fully grasp all the opportunities of their present vocation.

In the magazine article to which reference has already been made, the story is told of a man in middle life who, dissatisfied with his position and the progress he was making, came to the parting of the ways. An orphan, forced to make his way at the age of thirteen, he took a humble position in a food commission warehouse. In course of time he became a salesman, acquired a family and a house worth four thousand dollars, and at forty-two was working long hours every day for forty dollars a week. An opportunity presented itself to become produce manager in a newly organized business at fifty dollars a week, but he was required to invest two thousand in the business. He mortgaged his house to raise the money, and took on the new job. But the promoter of the business was inexperienced, and in ten months it failed, with the result that this man lost his money and ruined his health by worry. He then took stock of "himself." He realized he knew a little about a whole lot of vegetables, but did not know everything there was to know about any one of them. So, on the advice of a friend, this man went back to his old job and worked two years more during which time he made close and expert study of one particular vegetable for which there was an all-year-round demand. He learned where the best varieties were grown, and by whom; refrigerating methods; packing methods; costs; who bought that particular variety of vegetable; ways to use it; everything. Then he launched into business in a rented dark basement dealing exclusively in that one particular vegetable. Today he heads a huge and profitable business and is worth hundreds of thousands of dollars.

The point is just this: Is the dissatisfied agriculturist farming in any old way in haphazard fashion, sowing any kind of seed, good and clean or not; using any kind of scrub cattle, indifferent breeds of poultry, or other farm stock? Is the dissatisfied city artisan, or clerk, or business man, just drifting along, doing what comes to his hand, without giving much heed to the method of doing it? Is the carpenter, for instance, content to be merely a "saw and hammer" man instead of studying and striving to become efficient and an expert in his work? Is the merchant plodding along lines of least resistance but making no mental effort to study the requirements of his particular field and the needs, even the fads, of his customers?

In a word, are we treating our present occupations in life merely and solely as a means of physical existence in life, or are we finding some real pleasure and satisfaction in the work itself? If the former is our approach to our work we will, of course, be dissatisfied with it and with ourselves, and ultimate failure must result. If, on the other hand, the work itself means something to us, and we take a keen interest in it, study it and its possibilities, constantly strive for its improvement, then satisfaction will result, leading to contentment and a reasonable measure of success.

While there are exceptions to the general rule, that general rule is that it is not so much the nature of the work in which we are engaged that counts, as our attitude towards that work makes for dissatisfaction and failure on the one hand or satisfaction and ultimate success on the other hand.

Problem Of Survey Work In Remote Districts Has Been Solved

The aeroplane has solved one of the problems of the Geodesic Survey of Canada. In those districts which are traversed by neither roads nor railways, travel is slow and at times almost impossible. Winter Holiday Trips

Canadian Pacific Offers Special Inducements To the Winter Traveller

Sharp stimulus to winter travel in Western Canada this year is forecast by Canadian Pacific Railway officials in Winnipeg, chief among the contributing factors being the many special trains arranged to connect with special sailings to the Old Country for Christmas and New Year's. While this rail movement will be easier, there are also many interesting winter features in the west that annually bring thousands of easterners, Canadians and Americans to the winter playground of the northwest.

The Banff Carnival is now known all over the civilized world, and another western winter sporting event that has become firmly fixed on the calendar is the mid-winter golf tournament, sponsored by the Canadian Pacific Hotels, at Victoria, capital city of British Columbia.

This tournament, started in 1928, enters its third year next February, when, from February 23 to 28, a host of golfers will gather in the Pacific Northwest in quest of the Beatty challenge trophy. The tournament is being held this season at the Oak Bay course of the Victoria Golf Club, where all-winter golf is one of the feature attractions of Vancouver Island's evergreen playground.

As a special inducement to winter travellers, low round trip fares have been named by the Company to Eastern Canada and Central States, commencing December 1st, and to the Pacific Coast during December, January and part of February. These tickets are considerably lower in price than the ordinary fare and bear a much longer limit.

A new Canadian Government Trade Commissioner's office is to be opened at Cairo, Egypt. The territory for this new office, which will open sometime next December, includes Egypt, the Sudan, Palestine, Cyprus, Syria, Iraq and Persia. When the Canadian Trade Commissioner takes over at Cairo, Canada will have 24 trade commissioners in different parts of the world and a commercial agent at Sydney, Australia. These commissioners function under the Commercial Intelligence Service of the Canadian Government Department of Trade and Commerce, which is designed to further the interests of Canadian trade in all parts of the world. The trade commissioners make periodical reports upon trade and financial conditions in their respective territories and keep Canadian manufacturers and others advised concerning opportunities for the sale of Canadian products. Canada's foreign trade in 1929 was $256 per capita, the highest in the world.

Soviets Take That Method To Balance Money For Treasury

Soviet dumping of wheat and other products abroad at a time when the supplies are urgently needed in Russia itself is in the nature of "tax" collection under the Russian system, says the Financial Post, which continues:

"In Soviet Russia, the word taxation has no such meaning as Western minds attach to it. Holding private ownership to be unethical, the government itself is officially the owner of all property. Consequently, there is none for it to tax. Proclaiming private profits to be unethical, the accumulation of no incomes which might be taxed. It is obliged, therefore, to obtain its revenue from the actual products of the mines, forests, and farms which it operates or to take as taxes the produce of those who still operate privately—mainly the unsocialized peasants. But since it cannot operate a treasury directly with wheat and lumber, it must sell these articles in the outside world. 'This is what it is doing to the extent even of leaving its own people on the verge of starvation. Officially they are permitted to eat only what is distributed to them by the government and the heavy purchases of machinery abroad mean that the people at home must be kept to the very lowest limit of supplies.'

Turner Valley Oil

Seven Thousand Acres Definitely Proved As Large Producer Of Gas and Oil

Following a tour of the Turner Valley oil field, A. Beeby Thompson, a member of the British Council of Petroleum Technologists, declared that 7,000 acres of that terrain had been definitely proved as a large producer of gas and oil. Production, since the beginning of drilling operations, amounted to 3,000,000 barrels of a value of $10,000,000, the present rate of production being about 3,500 barrels per day from about 60 wells.

Old Milestone Found

Supposed To Indicate Distance From Chiappa, Italy, To Rome

Quite recently a most interesting discovery was made in Chiappa, Italy. During excavations there was brought to light an old marble milestone. On the stone could still be distinguished the marking of 553 miles and the name of Augustus Caesar. Presumably the stone indicated the distance from that spot to Rome, and formed part of the old road running between Rome and the Gallic countries, and known then as the Via Aurelia.

Her Two Children Had Summer Complaint

Mrs. J. J. MacDonald, Glace Bay, N.S., writes:—"I am the mother of six children, and would not be without a bottle of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry in the house. My two youngest were very sick with summer complaint, and there was nothing I tried could equal that remedy, and I had tried most everything, but they could get no relief. Dr. Fowler's made a change in both of them in less than two hours."

FALLING OFF IN MIGRATION FROM BRITISH ISLES

London, England.—There has been a pronounced decline in the number of assisted migrants who have left the shores of Britain for the Dominions in the last four years, according to figures submitted to the overseas settlement committee of the Imperial Conference. The less attractive economic conditions to be found in the Dominions in the last year or so was largely blamed for the drop.

Total assisted migration to Canada in 1927 amounted 27,615 persons, while 29,130 went to Australia and 4,446 to New Zealand. Last year 21,015 migrants went to Canada, 11,525 to Australia and 1,849 to New Zealand. Of the three countries, it will be seen that Canada suffered least by the drop. It is explained further, that 37,000 additional persons went to Canada in 1929 under the ten-pound fare rate, which really represents an acceleration rather than a decrease in the Canada-ward trek.

Today saw the Imperial Conference committee approaching the end of their task. A number of them are now entering the draft report stage and have cleared away routine work. The arbitration and disarmament committee, under Hon. Maurice Dupre, Solicitor-General of Canada, concluded its discussion of the British draft disarmament treaty submitted to the preparatory disarmament commission of the League of Nations. It was announced recently that Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, of Great Britain, was holding informal personal conversations with the prime ministers of the Dominions separately in an endeavor to smooth the path towards a successful conclusion of the Imperial Conference.

Forming Farm Boards

Prarie Provinces Stand Ready To Help Farmers Financially

Winnipeg, Man.—All three prairie provinces stand ready to assist western farmers in their financial predicament brought on by low prices of grain and livestock. Saskatchewan has had a debt-adjustment bureau in force for some time and Manitoba now has set up a parallel board to aid needy farmers and to effect fair distribution of credit and collections. The newest entry into the list is Alberta's agricultural development board, whose formation has been announced.

Ottawa, Ont.—The Dominion Government has requested General Sir Arthur Currie, commander-in-chief of the Canadian forces during the war, to represent Canada at the ceremonies in connection with the inauguration of New Delhi as the capital of British India and the opening of the new government buildings there. General Currie has accepted the invitation and will undertake the mission.

Lake Winnipeg Tragedy

Two Fishermen Drown When They Leaped From Burning Tug Boat

Winnipeg, Man.—From the blazing deck of the tug "Magnum," four fishermen leaped into the chill waters of Lake Winnipeg, near Gimli. Two were drowned, and the other pair were dragged, half-dead, from the icy water by another tug which rushed to the rescue. The "Magnum" sank after a gasoline explosion shattered the craft from stem to stern.

The dead: Captain William Bjarnson, Engineer Joe Bell.

The rescue tug "Goldfield," summoned by frenzied blasts from the ill-fated "Magnum," slain, saved Martin Johnson and Ole Kargul, surviving members of the crew. Bodies of Captain Bjarnson and Engineer Bell have not been recovered. The tug "Magnum," owned by the Armstrong Gimli Fisheries Company, was northbound for the fishing waters at the far end of Lake Winnipeg. The tug, laden with fishing supplies for the winter, will be a total loss.

Embargo On War Munitions

President Hoover Will Not Permit Shipment Of Arms To Brazilian Rebels

Washington, D.C.—President Hoover has issued a proclamation placing an embargo on the shipment of munitions of war to Brazil except for the Federal Government at Rio de Janeiro. In taking this step, the president acted upon the request of S. Gurgel Do Amaral, Brazilian ambassador, and lined up the United States Government definitely against the rebel forces in the southern republic.

Until this proclamation was issued, the Brazilian revolutionists were free to procure arms and munitions in the United States from private manufacturers. So far as the state department is advised, however, no shipments have actually been made to the rebels.

While secretary Stimson described the Brazilian ambassador as optimistic, the fact that his government requested an embargo on the shipment of arms to the rebels was generally construed as indicating that the authorities at Rio de Janeiro recognize that the uprising constitutes a grave threat to the Federal Government.

Automobile Production Down

Fewer Cars Produced In September Than Any Month In The Year

Ottawa, Ont.—Canada produced fewer automobiles in September than in any month this year, it was shown in a report published recently by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. The total was 7,957 cars, being 19 per cent. lower than for August and 42 per cent. lower than for September, 1929.

Likewise production figures for the first nine months of the year showed substantial reductions over 1929 totals. To the end of September, Canadian plants produced 138,822 cars, compared with 233,853 cars for the same period last year. This reduction amounts to 41 per cent.

Early Winter Is Hard On Aviators

Surprise Blizzard Caught Pilots and Mechanics At Northern Air Base

Prince Albert, Sask.—October's surprise blizzard caught the R.C.A.F. unaware, and pilots and mechanics at Ladder Lake air base labored often waist-deep in icy water to extricate four flying boats, including the huge twin-motored 14A passenger Vickers-Vancouver, from the ice of the lake. Usually the aircraft are flown to Winnipeg headquarters for the winter, but this year the machines will have to be beached and left until spring.

Celebrates 110th Birthday

Vancouver, B.C.—On October 22, friends of "Dad" Quick, Vancouver's senior citizen, congratulated him on the attainment of his 110th birthday. The veteran saddlemaker, who lays claim to this long span of years, looks back on many interesting historical events since he left his birth place, Taunton, Somersetshire, England, many years ago.

Time Is Extended

Edmonton, Alberta.—Hon. Dr. William Egbert will be lieutenant-governor of Alberta until April 1, 1931. His Honor has received notice from Ottawa that his five-year term, which expired in October, had been extended. He was asked to continue in office, owing to Premier Bennett's absence in England, and has consented to do so.

Postpone Return Flight

Capt. Errol Boyd Will Not Attempt Trip This Year

London, England.—Captain J. Errol Boyd and Lieutenant Harry P. Connor, who were planning to make a return flight across the Atlantic early next month, have definitely postponed the attempt until next spring.

The two men who flew to England from Harbor Grace, Nfld., 10 days ago, had been planning to use their monoplane "Columbia" for the first round-trip north Atlantic attempt.

When the sirren eventually make the return flight they will do so as owners of the "Columbia," for Sherwin Cottingham, aviation enthusiast in Montreal, has bought the veteran plane from Charles A. Levine and presented it to Boyd and Connor on condition that they do not fly the Atlantic again this year.

Boyd and Connor plan to sail for Canada, October 21, returning to England in the spring.

DISCUSS QUESTION OF VITAL MOMENT TO PROVINCES

London, England.—Before the Imperial Conference committee, under Lord Sankey, Lord High Chancellor, Canada is making a stand for provincial rights. Hon. Maurice Dupre, Canadian Solicitor-General, supporting the views held by Premier Ferguson and Taschereau on Ontario and Quebec, respectively, holds the provinces must first be consulted before any amendments can be made to the British North America Act. The question arose in the consideration of the committee of the recommendations of the 1929 conference on operations of dominion laws.

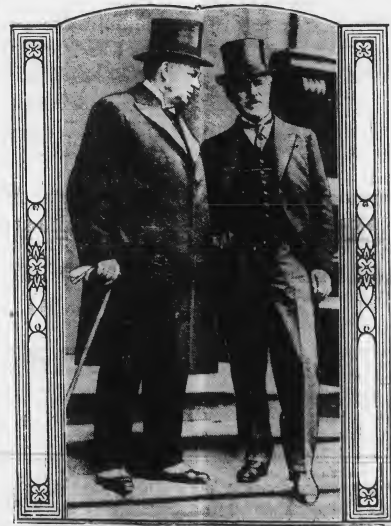

In effect, the Canadian delegate's stand pursued to its logical conclusion would lead to an interprovincial conference or some other mode of consultation before final action on the report of the 1929 conference.

The 1929 conference, composed of legal experts from the various dominions, was a belated aftermath of the status resolutions of the 1926 Imperial Conference. The 1929 gathering studied the conflicts in Dominion legislation and British legislation and finally recommended an Imperial act be passed nullifying the effect of the Colonial Laws Validity Act.

Critics of these recommendations claim they go further than mere repeal of the Colonial Validity Act; that in effect they authorize an amendment to the Canadian constitution. Premier Ferguson and Taschereau both took the ground that as Canadian confederation was a pact between the provinces, the constitution cannot be amended without the consent of the provinces. Hon. Maurice Dupre is understood to be supporting this view in the committee deliberations.

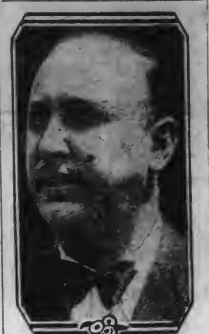

How the provinces are to be consulted has not yet been determined. There is a belief that the principle and precedent involved in the matter are of greater importance than the actual issues at stake.

British Airship Workers Worried

Disaster To R-101 May Mean Reduction In Staff

Cardington, England.—Eight hundred workers of the Royal Airship works here and their families are undergoing an anxious time pending decision of the future of airship development following the disaster to the R-101.

Officials of the works met secretly and the fact they also kept their conclusions, if any, to themselves, served to increase the apprehension.

It is rumored there is a proposal to cut labor down by 20 per cent. immediately and, in the circumstances, the workers are profoundly anxious to see an early commencement of the official air ministry enquiry into the R-101 disaster, delay in which is beginning to result in newspaper criticism.

Customary Two Minutes Silence

People Requested To Mark Armistice Day As Usual

Ottawa, Ont.—Canada will observe the customary two-minutes of silence on the morning of Armistice Day, Tuesday, November 11. The following statement in respect to it has been issued from the office of the Prime Minister: "In accordance with arrangements for the observance of Armistice Day, sanctioned by His Majesty the King, the people of Canada are invited to mark the occasion by a two-minute silence at 11 a.m. on Tuesday, November 11, 1930."

Shamrock Reaches Home

Battled With Bad Weather and Stormy Seas All the Way Across Southampton, Eng.—Battered by terrific seas encountered on her way across the Atlantic, the "Shamrock V" arrived minus her original steering wheel which was washed away when she was 24 hours out of Bristol, Rhode Island.

Captain William Greenock, who brought the America's Cup challenger home, said that the yacht ran into bad weather practically all the way over. At times the boat was held to a standstill.

"It was no pleasure cruise," he said. "I do not think the weather could have been more unkind for we struck a bad patch just after leaving America."

The Shamrock will be taken to a shipyard for the winter. All aboard were reported well.

Asking Six-Hour Day

Railroad Men Want Shorter Hours With Same Rate Of Pay

Cleveland, Ohio.—The seven railroad labor unions of Canada and the United States have taken the leadership of organized labor in the movement seeking a six-hour working day without reduction of pay.

Officials of the railroad unions estimated that the proposed six-hour day would put to work 50,000 men now unemployed in the railroad industries. The campaign for the shorter working day will be planned in detail at a meeting of 700 representatives of the railroad unions in Chicago, Nov. 12.

CANADA TO BE REPRESENTED AT CHICAGO SHOW

Chicago, Ill.—Canada is again expected to make an impressive showing in the International Grain and Hay Show, to be held at Chicago, November 29 to December 6, in connection with the International Live Stock Exposition. Already entries are being received, some from the most distant parts of the earth. Three samples of wheat have arrived from New South Wales, according to the management.

Distinction for having made the first entry in the rye and wheat classes of the exposition this year goes to a Saskatchewan grower, James A. Paup of Langham. In the rye classes of the 1929 exposition, Paup's sample ranked high.

Other successful Canadian exhibitors at the last exposition, who are expected to take part this year, were George Avery of Kelso, Sask., who had reserve championship on a two-rowed barley sample at the 1929 show; W. G. Gibson of Ladner, B.C., and William Darnborough of Laura, Sask., who had champion and reserve champion respectively on field peas; Joseph H. B. Smith of Wolf Creek, Alberta, and S. Lacombe of Birtle, Manitoba, who ranked first and second with samples of Red Spring Wheat; Eddie J. Shank of Athabasca, Alberta, who won a blue on an early oats sample, and many other provincial exhibitors whose samples placed creditably high in the competition.

A well known Canadian, Dr. G. I. Christie, president of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, Ont., and a director of the International Live Stock Exposition, is in charge of the International Grain and Hay Show. Through him Canada will be invited to send a judge of the small grain classes. The Grain and Hay Show will also have the active support of the various Canadian seed growers' associations as well as the provincial departments of agriculture.

Added incentive for Canadian farmers to participate in the 1930 International Grain and Hay Show will be generous cash prizes offered to Canadian winners by the Canadian Co-operative Wheat Producers, Limited; the Canadian National Railways; the Canadian Pacific Railway, and the governments of Quebec, Ontario, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia. To the Albertan winning a grand championship in either wheats or oats, the Calgary Board of Trade offers a round trip railway ticket and sleeping car fare to the 1931 International Grain and Hay Show.

B. H. Heide, secretary of the International Live Stock Exposition at Chicago, says: "Growers should not be discouraged from taking part this year because of possible decreased quality of their samples owing to unfavorable growing conditions last summer, which since the situation was general to North America continent, will, I believe be generally reflected in most all of the samples submitted."

N. Z. BUTTER WAS SUBJECT TO DUMPING DUTY

Vancouver, B.C.—A dump duty of 40 cents per 46-pound box was assessed by the Canadian customs on the 38,000 boxes of New Zealand butter which arrived on the Niagara on October 11.

This was in addition to the regular duty of one cent under the old treaty tariff, which expired on October 12, and represented approximately $16,000 added impost on the 2,000,000 pounds of butter in the big shipment which arrived just in time to avoid the new duty of 8 cents a pound.

Local butter importers who have conferred with Hon. E. B. Ryckman, Minister of National Revenue, during his visit here, explain that the dump duty was assessed when it was discovered that the invoice price of the butter was four-fifths of a cent less than the fair market price in New Zealand at the time of shipment, as advised by the Canadian Trade Commissioner in New Zealand.

Under the new dumping clause the customs department may assess an extra duty equal to the difference between invoice price and fair market price in the country of origin, but only up to 50 per cent of the fair market price or a fixed price set by the Minister of National Revenue. In this case the dump duty was exactly the difference between invoice and home market price in New Zealand.

At a conference with the minister it was arranged that in future the Canadian Trade Commissioner in New Zealand will advise the customs department here of the fair market price there on the day of shipment, so that valuation for duty here may not be affected by possible market fluctuations while the butter is in transit.

Grain Grading High

Northern Wheat Grades Good

Average After the Rain
Prince Albert, Sask.—Grain, threshed before the blizzard, is grading high at local elevators contrary to expectation. Some of the most optimistic. At the Pool elevator a number of loads of wheat threshed since the rains have been marketed and loads from well-stocked sheaves are grading No. 2 Northern and No. 3 with little difference in some cases no evidence of sprouting.

Elevator officials estimate the average has been No. 3 and that this will be maintained after threshing is resumed. If weather is holding up exceptionally well, this species averaging No. 2 Northern. Wheat from well-stocked crops, it is estimated, will be assured of a No. 2 average.

Will Open Textile Mill

English Firms Would Bring Own Workmen To Canada

Ottawa, Ont.—Admission to Canada of a limited number of skilled textile workers is being sought by an English firm which has purchased a textile plant at Carlton Place. The mill, which has been closed for some time, will be reopened shortly and will employ 360 hands.

The company wishes to bring from its home plant about 25 people. They will work on the manufacture of woollen coatings and other cloth of a kind never before made in this country.

Nurses Save Child's Life

Belleville, Ill.—Nurses at St. Elizabeth Hospital sitting in two-hour relays with a finger pressed tightly against an incision in the external jugular vein of Josephine Jarvis, 9, of Lebranon, Ill., probably have saved the little girl's life. Flying glass from the windshield of the Jarvis car, driven by her mother, severed the vein and a branch of the facial artery, when the Jarvis car and another collided.

Threshing Resumed

Edmonton, Alberta.—Another good comeback by the Alberta crops will be registered if weather permits, in the opinion of Hon. George Hoadley, Minister of Agriculture. Threshing is already being resumed in some localities as indicated by reports to the department, and if sufficient sunshine continues.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

The inquiry into the crash of the R-101 reveals that it was sacrificed with over forty lives in an attempt to obtain spectacular glory. The impulsive nature of men regarded as solid and responsible individuals overcame good judgment. A trip to India was commenced on an untried airship, not with the prime purpose of testing it, but to satisfy an all-absorbing desire to set off at a certain time. There cannot be any excuses offered for such a regrettable error, for those who ordered the flight perished.

Congressional election results in the United States and the result of the referendum in certain States indicate that President Hoover will have a strenuous two years in putting legislation through. The votes on the modification or repeal of the Volstead Act, unmistakably show that Prohibition sentiment is on the wane, and it might safely be predicted that moderation will eventually prevail. The vote was overwhelmingly against nation-wide Prohibition. With the hard times, the party in power suffered almost as badly as the Liberals in Canada, and it would appear that a Democrat president will be elected in 1932.

Radio furnishes a variety of entertainment—exceptionally good and excruciatingly bad. Modern-day ultra jazz in which saxophone players take such liberties as to truly "render" music to an unrecognizable form, is more hideous than a bunch of Kaffir wagon drivers holding their nightly pow-wow around a kettle full of mealie.

One good thing, you do not have to listen to it. All kinds of tastes in radio audiences must be catered to. Radio has the advantage over attending a concert in person. Sensitive souls would hesitate to arise in the middle of a selection and walk out on the players. With radio you can just switch the dial and imagine you are wringing the offender's neck.

Macaulay wrote: "A people which takes no pride in the noble achievements of remote ancestors will never achieve anything worthy to be remembered with pride by remote descendants." This was brought to mind on Armistice Day by the lack of observance in Coleman. It is pleasing to record, however, that the classes in the schools observed the two minutes silence.

The granting of free publicity by a newspaper certainly will never make a newspaper proprietor rich, neither will it pay for the paper, ink, light, power and wages for production. But often free publicity seekers will send their printing elsewhere when there is a dollar or two in it. It is one of the peculiar kinks in human nature.

A retailer in any town has to pay business taxes. Why not have the mail order houses pay a business tax on all the goods they sell to the people of the small towns, to be added to the cost of the goods? Then we would hear a big "holler" both from the mail order houses and the customers. All the same, it would be fair play.

On Monday evening President Hoover, in Washington, D.C., addressed the National Advertising Association at their annual banquet. In a five-minute address he said more than many would take half an hour to tell. And he didn't hurry over his words like water rushing over a cataract. Every word had a meaning, and the total time of his attendance at the banquet was less than fifteen minutes. Yet his visit did not savor of hurrying. The chief executive's time schedule is planned so carefully for that. Business men of much smaller calibre might well take a lesson.

Benjamin Franklin, was a printer's apprentice. Later in life he became a noted writer, statesman, and commissioner plenipotentiary to France. The United States honors his memory, for he ranks with Washington as one of the two greatest and ablest men that nation has produced. And before his death he stated the only epitaph he desired on his tombstone was: "Here lies Benjamin Franklin, Printer." What a contrast to many social climbers who would, on attaining a degree of success, try and conceal the fact they were once engaged in trade.

Life is similar to a garden. It depends how your time is spent, what you will reap. Pay no attention to the seed planted in a garden, and you reap little in return. If you plant no good seed in your daily actions, in your dealing with fellow men, in cultivating a broad mental outlook on all that pertains to life, you will radiate a personality in keeping with your actions. It does not require very keen perceptive powers to distinguish who's who and what's what in your daily contacts.

Another western senator and a pioneer of Saskatchewan has passed away in the person of Hon. J.G. Turriff in Ottawa. He was respected by men of both political parties.

First Photos Alaska-Montreal Telephone Link

The first telephonic conversation between Alaska and outside commercial lines took place a few days ago, when C. H. McLean, transmission Engineer of the British Columbia Telephone Co. and H. A. Robinson, Radio Engineer of the Northern Electric Co. Ltd., on board the Yacht "Belmont" in the harbour at Ketchikan, Alaska 900 miles north of Vancouver, B.C., put in a long distance call through Vancouver to Montreal and in a few minutes were carrying on a two way conversation with Major James Hamilton, Vice President and general manager B.C. Telephone and P. F. Sise, President Northern Electric Co. in the latter's office in the new Telephone Bldg. The conversation was overheard by a group of prominent citizens at both ends of the land lines which were "connected" to the yacht by a new Radio Link developed entirely in Canada. Pictures show, top left: H. A. Robinson and C. H. McLean with others in the operating room of the "Belmont". Right, The "Belmont" in Ketchikan Harbour. Lower left, P. F. Good Hunting in Laurentians

This fine bull moose with 56 1/2-inch spread of antlers was shot in Mount Tremblant Park, Laurentians, about 60 miles east of Mont Laurier, which they towed the body to camp. Photographs show close-up of the moose and of the body being towed to camp, the heavily loaded canoe and a snap shot of a passage through shallows. The guide stated that in all his experience he had never seen moose so shot, the animal fell into the Cypress River, its plentiful in the district.

"Thank goodness then, that you didn't discover me before!"

"Is it so awful—kissing me?" asked Nick.

"It would be awful kissing you good-bye," answered his wife demurely.

"For that," he said, putting his arm about her, "you shall have another!"

"Gay," he continued with mock severity, "we're downright silly. I wouldn't have believed we could be so bad. And I suppose you're right. We've sponged on Mr. Bartlett long enough. Say, let's ask the old man up to supper. It would tickle him to death."

So Simon Bartlett was their first guest. He arrived panting, after the hard pull up the foot path that led from the wood road.

"I take this kindly, ma'am," he said, sinking down breathless on the porch, and mopping the dampness from his brow with a huge handkerchief. Although evening was approaching he carried his umbrella. Indeed, he seemed almost afraid to give it up when Gay offered to relieve him of it.

"Never travel without it, ma'am," he repeated. "Shouldn't hardly let it home if it went along. Well, well, this looks real easy, don't it? Built this place for my old woman, ma'am, before I got so confounded fleshy."

"Time was when I could come up that path without heaving an eyelash, save as Nick here. A good boy, Nick. You didn't make no mistake" when you picked him out."

"She didn't do the picking," laughed Enid. "I picked her, and then didn't give her time to think about it."

"Well, well," chuckled the old man. "Just you take care that she don't regret it. By gorry! this ain't by any chance your honeymoon, be it?"

"Gay blushed; but Nick only laughed at their guests' embarrassing interrogation."

"We hadn't been married ten minutes when you met us, Mr. Bartlett."

"In an instant the old man was serious."

"You ain't runnin' away from your folks, be you?" he asked soberly. "If so, it's my advice for you to go straight home and make it up. I—"

"That's a good thing to quarrel with yer folks," he continued, sinking back comfortably in his chair. "I wouldn't advise it ever, though they's times when families act awful peculiar. That it's no way to begin life—runnin' off an' gettin' married secret like. Taint a good thing to remember. You got to think of that, boy. Everything you do now—every darn mean thoughtless little act'll come back to you when your work's done, and you got time to set down and think it over. Once when I was more than six year old I cheated at an egg race. 'Twas at a Sunday School picnic. I didn't hardly know I was cheating till afterward, but I took the prize (it was a whistle, ma'am, hung on a red silk cord), and I ain't never been able to forget it. Well, I'm glad you ain't quarreled with yer folks."

"We have none to quarrel with," said Nick.

"Not neither of you?"

Nick shook his head. He bodily put an arm about his wife and drew her closer. "So you see," he said to Gay, "Bartlett, though his eyes sought Gay's, 'we seem to belong together.'"

"That's right," responded the old man. "That's the way to feel; and don't you ever let nothin' come between you and make a fool of yourself. Nick, you just own up, and if yer wife loves you she'll forgive an awful lot. The good book says that the peace of God passeth all understanding, but I don't believe it's a mile more wonderful than the love of a woman. What a woman'll put up with—Well, I'll say this, son: you're a good boy, but you prob'ly ain't one third good enough for her."

"I fear I'm not," agreed Nick readily; but Gay laughed, and asked if her husband was to get all the good advice.

Simon Bartlett chuckled.

"I don't aim to advise a lady," he said gallantly, "but if I was urged I'd say don't let him too close to yer yapon strappings, ma'am. Give him plenty of rope to run on; and don't mind when he notices a pretty face. It's again nature for a young fellow like a good boy, but you prob'ly ain't one third good enough for her."

"I fear I'm not," agreed Nick readily; but Gay laughed, and asked if her husband was to get all the good advice.

you might say, always been' sure of my old woman, and sign'n' the pledge at twelve year old. Do I smell chowder, ma'am?"

"That sounds," laughed Gay, "like a gentle hint for supper. Shall we have it here on the porch?"

"That would suit me fine, ma'am. Me and my old woman used to eat here summer even'n's. Sometimes the hermit thrushes would sing for us. We called 'em our orchestra; and a darn sight prettier music it was than what comes out of the brass band over to Meiler's Falls."

"We'll agree on that," said Nick. "They sang the night we came here. I told Gay it was a bridal chorus, sung specially for us."

"And I don't doubt it was, sonny," said the old man gently. "You run along now and help your missus dish up supper. You don't need to make company o' me; and I ain't one that b'lieves a man's place is on the front porch while his wife is rustlin' with the kitchen stove or the dish pan."

"Nor I," said Nick, rising to obey. "You can ask Gay, if I'm not a champion dish-washer."

It was a festive little supper, and Simon Bartlett pronounced his hostess a "first class cook," a tribute that brought the happy couple back to Gay's cheeks, and a proud light to her husband's eyes. Later, when the world was drenched in moonlight, they escorted Mr. Bartlett home.

"I've had a real good time," he said in parting. "Don't know as I've enjoyed anything so much since my old woman went away. Stay as long as ever you're a mind to, but not a minute longer. I know how 'tis. Once I had that longin' to see 'new things' myself, but it's long years now since home seemed the best place of all. Gorry! if it wasn't for all the things I've got to remember, I'd almost envy you, startin' out with the whole of life before you. Goodnight, youngsters; and don't you go forgettin' the good advice I give you."

He chuckled, but Nick said soberly: "I shan't forget, sir."

"Nor shall I," Gay promised. She laid a gentle hand on the old man's. "If I don't make Nick happy it won't be because I forgot your warnings, and I thank you."

"You're a good girl," he answered, patting her hand before releasing it. "You've given a lonely old man a happy evening."

"What a dear he is," said Gay, as they rode away. She felt suddenly reluctant to leave this kind old friend, standing alone before a house that showed no welcoming lights.

Nick looked at her tenderly.

"You're something of a dear yourself, Gay. I could see you took old Simon's heart by storm. Poor old chap! His wife's been dead for years, but he always speaks as if she had just left him. I'm glad we thought to have him up for supper."

"It was you who thought of it," said Gay. "You think of everybody."

She moved closer, to rest her cheek against his arm. "Nick..."

"Well?" Nick questioned, as no words seemed forthcoming.

"I've been wondering..."

"Wondering what?" He looked at her amusedly. "It seems to be difficult to say."

"It is..." Nick. "I think you're wonderful!"

"Is that all?" Nick queried, with a slow smile.

"No. There's a problem been troubling me all evening. I can't face it alone, and..."

"Of course you can't—you've got me to face it with you! But, my dear girl, I thought it was to escape such things as problems that we came away. Anyhow, we won't face it till we're back at camp. I'm going to take you the long way round. It's a glorious night to ride."

It was so glorious that they forgot the flight of time. It was late when they reached the cabin, but despite the hour they sat down together on the porch, and Nick reached for his wife's hand, twisting the slender wedding ring around her finger.

"You've guessed this was my mother's, haven't you? She told me to keep it till I found the one girl in the world. I used to think I'd never use it—or not for years and years. No setting down for me! I was to be a vagabond, you know—traverse the earth—conquer the world! Oh, Gay, what a kid I was, even a week ago!"

She sturred uneasily.

"And aren't you now?"

"My dear, how can I be a kid? I'm a married man!"

He was laughing; but Gay said soberly: "But—but I like having a kid. Nick. You're only twenty-one. It—it's that..."

"No," said Nick. "I see. I'd forgotten the problem. Trot it out, young lady, and we'll go to it; though you've no moral right to produce the abominable thing on a quest for freedom."

Takes On New Job

Engineering Wizard Will Build Tunnel Under Mediterranean Sea

Paul J. Moranti, the man who put Wall Street on stilts and carved a half-mile ditch through the world's greatest financial section without disturbing the powder on a stenographer's nose, is seeking new holes to dig.

He looks forward to his next job—building of a railroad tunnel under the Mediterranean Sea to connect Spain with Morocco. The Spanish Government has appointed him consulting engineer for the project and he will leave soon to make borings at Gibraltar.

Moranti's task of constructing a subway excavation to link the lines of the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit System is practically completed—only one year ahead of schedule. Seven hundred men contributed to the work and it will cost the city $5,733,149.

In executing a job that experts said could not be done without suspending operations on the market, Moranti's record of 35 years' experience; shifted a solid maze of electric conduits, gas, water and steam pipes; removed a brick sewer; sank his supports in quicksand; dumped the excavated mud thirteen miles off the shore away. She felt suddenly reluctant to leave this kind old friend, standing alone before a house that showed no welcoming lights.

Nick looked at her tenderly.

"You're something of a dear yourself, Gay. I could see you took old Simon's heart by storm. Poor old chap! His wife's been dead for years, but he always speaks as if she had just left him. I'm glad we thought to have him up for supper."

Matrimonial Ad in Japanese Paper Is Very Tempting

The matrimonial advertisement has recently been introduced into Japan, and we have just seen the translation of a quaint specimen. It reads:

"I am a beautiful woman. My curly hair is like a gentle wave. My figure is supple as a reed, and my skin soft as silk. I possess a large enough fortune to go safely through life at the side of my beloved. If it were my good fortune to meet an honorable man, well-bred and intelligent, I would remain always kind and obedient to him, and would happily share with him eternal repose in a tomb of rose colored marble."

All very tempting—even to the offer of the rose-colored marble tomb, which would appeal to the Japanese rather than to the British mentality.

"THEY WORK WHILE YOU SLEEP"

Lovebird Pearls

When Bargains Are Not Bargains

(By G. F. Bouchat)

"Why is our 'home town' not as prosperous as it was fifteen or twenty years ago?" I have been asked that question more times than any other I can recall. It is not necessary to have spy-glasses to find the cause of this trouble—the difficulty lies right at home.

How do you expect your community to thrive if you persistently spend your dollars elsewhere? When asking this question I would like to impress upon you the fact that though I am a strong advocate of buying at home I likewise believe in spending money where it buys the most. If you can buy more for your dollar away from your home town, then by all means spend it away from home. But before you do make sure that you are actually getting more for it. Don't be a sucker—don't fall for the bait these so-called modern merchandisers have to offer you in the form of beautiful catalogue cuts, enhanced by apparently wonderful prices. Prices that they lead you to believe are made possible only by their gigantic purchasing power.

It is an established fact that manufacturers who have been in business for any length of time, and who desire to remain in business, have remained so, and will continue, only on the strength of the quality of their products. Their goods while in process of manufacturing are subject to very severe inspections. Extreme care must be taken at all times, as competitors are numerous, and are continuously on the look-out for any flaws which they could possibly use as ammunition against competitive sales.

Under these conditions, it is surprising to find what an enormous percentage of rejects actually go through the factories. Now allow me to ask you a fair question. Do they throw these away? You know they don't. But did you know the best outlet they have for these rejects are the mail order houses, whom for years have sapping the life blood from your small towns?

Did you know that the jobbing houses, selling double trees and neck-yokes to your local hardware men, will not accept mill rejects? But mail order houses will. And they buy plenty of them (as mill statistics show that 42 per cent of their output finally reach the dull pile).

As I previously explained to you, a little red paint can do wonders. Of course a couple of extra bolts are put in to give them the appearance of being better re-inforced. But don't forget that a couple of soft bolts are much cheaper than hard wood.

Records of the manufacturers of enamelware show that 34 per cent of their wares reach the final stage of manufacture as rejections. Are these discarded in the junk heap? I should say not. They are sold to mail order houses at their cost. And these houses make plenty of profit on them even though they pay a few cents extra to have them retouched, so that the poor fish cannot detect the inferiority.

The demand for these enameled utensils at times is so great that the factory rejects are not sufficient to cope with it. Under the circumstances manufacturers are approached with enormous orders and are instructed to give these utensils a double dipping in the enamel in place of the quadruple dipping which they are customarily given.

This is not propaganda given to you in the interests of your local merchants, but facts right from the shoulder. Don't take my word for it. Use that faculty, known as brains, which was given to you at the hour of your birth, and make your own comparisons.

How many times have you received a substitute for the goods you actually ordered? So many times that so doubt you have forgotten it. It is a trick so old that it should have been buried long ago, but the public are still falling for it. They swallow it in its entirety.

A well known brand of wrenches is advertised at such a low figure that your local merchants actually are led to believe that the only way they could be obtained to sell at such a price, would be to steal them.

In order to remain within the law, about 25 of these wrenches are carried in stock. Orders begin to pour in, and eventually these few wrenches find their way into country points. Extreme care is exercised in seeing that they are distributed in districts far enough apart.

Ninety-nine per cent of those who ordered this particular tool receive a wrench of a different make. At the time shipment is made they also present an acknowledgment of the order to which is attached a little slip reading something like this: "At the time your order was received our stock of that particular wrench was exhausted. Rather than disappoint you by holding up the order we have taken the liberty of substituting a more expensive wrench at the same price. We hope this action on our part will meet with your approval."

These slips are printed by the thousands. Thousands of them are sent out daily on various commodities. This is not hearsay but actual facts. I should know, as I happen to have had the privilege of looking after the advertising end of one of the largest mail order houses on the American continent for a period of three years (All reproduction rights reserved).

The Junior W. A. of St. Alban's church held a very successful sale of work and tea in the parish hall last Saturday afternoon. About $34.00 was realized—a very fruitful return for loyal co-operation of the girls.

LEAVE THE LIQUOR ACT ALONE BEWARE OF THE CAMPAIGN OF MISREPRESENTATION

Beer is a moderate drink. Prohibitionists, in attempting to force their views on the people, try to class it as a heavy alcoholic beverage. IT IS NOT.

The present Liquor Act allows beer to contain up to 4½% alcohol.

Alberta Breweries keep well under this. Their beers range from 3.6% to 4% in alcoholic content.

BEER IS PALATABLE and an EXCEEDINGLY
MODERATE DRINK

Compare this with whisky or brandy, ten times the strength of beer. Draw your own conclusions!

DO NOT SIGN THE PROHIBITION PETITION. IT MEANS CANCELLING LICENSES OF ALL CLUBS AND BEER ROOMS

Leave the Act alone. We don't want the bootlegger back again.
